

One House. Many Homes.

One house is often a home many times.

This blue house was built in 1949. That was a long time ago when many people did not have a television.

Phil and Dolores Anderson were the first people to call the blue house “home.” They bought it right after their wedding. In 1974, the Anderson’s sold the house to...

Jesse Holmes, who called it “home” until 1999 when he sold the house to...

Dorothy Smith. This was Dorothy's home for ten years. She sold it In 2009 to...

Robert and Andrea, who needed a home for their baby boy, Ryan. Ryan grew fast and Robert and Andrea sold the house to...

The Williams' family. It was their home for three years, until they leased it to...

The Romanos, who love calling it “home” while they build a bigger house to call “home.”

Dorothy and Jesse, Phil, Dolores, Robert, Andrea, Ryan, and the Williams family, have all lived in the blue house and called it “home.” Now they have other places that they call “home.”

The Romanos new house is finished and they will be going to live there soon. After the Romanos are in their new home...

the blue house will be someone else's home.

It's one house that has been a home for many people.
